

Report of Orientation Programs of Guru Nanak College, Budhlada

Guru Nanak College, Budhlada, holds a strong commitment to fostering a positive and disciplined learning environment. To uphold this commitment, the college has been organizing various programs centered around its code of conduct. This report aims to provide an overview of these programs, their implementation, and their impact on the college community. The college regularly organizes orientation programmes for faculty and students for the effective implementation of college code. At the beginning of each academic year, orientation sessions are conducted for both new and returning students. These sessions emphasize the college's code of conduct, outlining expectations regarding behavior, academic integrity, respect for diversity, and the importance of community engagement. During the orientation programmes Department Heads, faculty, convenors and coordinators of different cells and committees provide a detailed information regarding college discipline, college regulations, participation of students, and the functioning as well as various activities organised their respective departments, cells and committees. These programs aim to instill values aligned with the college's code of conduct and promote responsible citizenship among students. The college administration, in collaboration with code of conduct committee, faculty members and student representatives, plans and coordinates the code of conduct programs. This involves setting objectives, designing curriculum content, and scheduling activities throughout the academic calendar. Promotion of the programs is done through various channels, including social media, notice boards, classroom announcements etc. The code of conduct programs organized by Guru Nanak College play a crucial role in shaping the college experience and nurturing responsible citizens. Through a comprehensive approach encompassing orientation sessions, awareness campaigns, and student engagement activities, the college instills values of integrity, respect, and social responsibility.
